DECEPTIVE SIGHT

GREAT DIFFICULTY IN ESTIMATING DISTANCE.

A Mounted Man Appears as a Speck at 2000 Yards, While the Modern Long-Range Rifle Will Carry Two and a Half Times That Distance—The Modern Army Marksman Must Qualify for 1000 Yards.

"Speaking of estimating distance reminds me of the fact that we are all dreadfully deficient when it comes to this sort of thing," said a hero of the war with Spain, "and my attention was called to the fact afresh by an article issued recently.

"A few very pertinent questions were asked for illustrative purposes, such as: 'Do you know that at 30 yards the white of a man's eye is plainly seen and the eyes themselves up to 80 yards? That at 100 yards all parts of the body are seen distinctly, slight movements are perceptible, and the minute details of the uniform can be distinguished? That at 200 yards the outlines of the face are confused and the rows of buttons look like stripes? That at 400 yards the face is a mere dot, but all movements of the legs and arms are still distinct? That at 600 yards details can no longer be distinguished, though files of a squad, if the light is strong, can be counted? That at 800 yards the men in a squad cannot be counted nor their individual movements distinguished?

"At 1000 yards a line of men resembles a broad belt; the direction of their march can, however, be readily determined. At 1200 yards cavalry can be distinguished from infantry, and at 2000 yards a mounted man usually appears as a mere speck. Yet in these days of long range weapons battles are fought at a distance of 1000 yards, and it is desirable for marksmen to qualify for that range.

"The new rifle, with which our troops are to be equipped has a maximum effective fighting range of 4781 yards, or more than two and a half miles. In other words, a bullet from this rifle will kill or disable at a greater distance than the man firing it can distinguish an individual enemy from the surrounding landscape.

"All of which should impress us with the importance of rifle practice. Shooting doesn't do any good, you know, unless you can hit the thing you shoot at."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Begin Right.

If you want to reform, begin right. Start with yourself. When your own heart and mind have received a thorough house cleaning, you are in a position to give some assistance and valuable service to your neighbor, and not before. Reform that counts begins at home, and it does not boast and brag about on the street corners, but it works silently and a resistless force for the uplifting of mankind. Man is made of intentions and evil passions, and our many methods of reform have consisted in nourishing and developing the passions and curbing and annihilating the intentions. In place of cultivating the noble attributes and God-like qualities of man we have industriously destroyed them. To wipe the tears from the face of a weary world, and to heal the wounds that cry from a blood-stained earth is reform—reform that begins in the heart and the mind, and not in the etheral regions. —Organized Labor.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular free.
